Comparing the Federal Direct PLUS Loan for Parents and private student loans

Many families consider financing their undergraduate student's education with either a Federal Direct PLUS Loan for Parents or a private education loan. This comparison chart will help you understand the features and benefits of each type of loan. Interest rates and fees for private loans vary between lenders and are generally based on the credit of the individual borrower and cosigner; however, other factors may also be considered.

	Federal Direct PLUS Loan for Parents<sup>1</sup>	School-certified private student loan<sup>2</sup>
Borrower	Parent	Student
Credit check required	Yes, a parent with an adverse credit history may obtain an endorser or meet additional requirements to qualify.	Yes, loan approval and pricing are generally based on creditworthiness. Lenders may also consider other factors.
Cosigner requirement	No, but a parent with adverse credit history may obtain an endorser.	No, but a student with little or no credit history may have a better chance of approval by applying with a creditworthy cosigner.
Cosigner release option	This loan does not require a cosigner.	Many lenders provide a cosigner release option where the student can apply to release the cosigner after they graduate, make a specified number of on-time payments, and meet underwriting requirements.
Interest rate	For loans first disbursed on or after July 1, 2024 and before July 1, 2025, the interest rate is fixed at 9.08%.	Varies by lender. Many lenders offer both variable and fixed interest rates. Although lenders may consider multiple factors, rates are generally based on the borrower's and cosigner's creditworthiness, so those with good credit may qualify for a lower rate.
Origination/disbursement fees	4.228% for loans first disbursed on or after Oct. 1, 2020, and before Oct. 1, 2025.	Varies by lender; most offer 0%.
Minimum payment amount while the student is enrolled in school	Loans will automatically be placed in principal and interest repayment. The borrower can request to defer PLUS loan payments while the student is in school and for six months after graduation, leaving school, or dropping below half-time enrollment (interest continues to accrue during this time and unpaid interest is added to the loan's principal amount when the deferment period ends).	Varies by lender. Many lenders allow private loan payments to be deferred while in school (interest accrues during this time and unpaid interest is added to the loan's principal amount when the deferment period ends). Many lenders offer options to make interest payments during the in-school period.
Repayment term	10 – 25 years of principal and interest payments.	Varies by lender; typically terms of 5 – 20 years of principal and interest payments are offered.

Payment flexibility	PLUS loans for parents are eligible for multiple repayment plans including standard, graduated, and extended repayment options, federal consolidation, and some public service loan forgiveness options. See studentaid.gov for more information.	Varies by lender. Contact lender for their specific repayment options.
Responsibility to pay	Parent and endorser (if applicable).	Student and cosigner (if applicable).
Loan limits	Up to 100% of the school-certified cost of attendance minus other financial aid received.	Generally, up to 100% of the school-certified cost of attendance minus other financial aid received. Lenders can have different loan limits for different loan programs and may base the limits on various factors.
Minimum enrollment status	Student must be enrolled at least half time.	Varies by lender; some offer loans to students who are attending school less than half-time.
Application process	Online with the Department of Education through the FAFSA ® process, but some schools have different application processes.	Online with lender; there may be other potential application options, e.g., applying over the phone.
Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA®) required	Yes.	No. Families are not required to complete the FAFSA ® unless it is the policy of the school.
Borrower benefits	0.25 percentage point interest rate reduction for automatic debit enrollment.	Most lenders offer a 0.25 percentage point interest rate reduction for automatic debit enrollment. Additional benefits vary by lender.
Death and disability loan forgiveness	Yes. If the parent dies or becomes totally and permanently disabled or if the student beneficiary dies and certain conditions are met, then the loan will be discharged.	Varies by lender. Some lenders waive the remaining balance in the event of the borrower's death or permanent and total disability.
Ability to consolidate through the Department of Education	Yes. Parents can consolidate with other federal loans in their name (not the student's).	No.
Options for denied loans	If a parent is unable to obtain the loan, the student may be eligible for additional unsubsidized loans.	Student can typically apply with a different cosigner if the cosigner is denied.
Tax deduction for interest paid<sup>3</sup>	The interest paid on the loan may be deductible subject to IRS guidelines.	The interest paid on the loan may be deductible subject to IRS guidelines.
